ATEX RADIO ACCESSORIES

On an oil rig or in a potentially explosive mine, ATEX radios are a lifeline. Hazardous manufacturing environments rely on intrinsically safe designs that preserve communications while minimising the risk posed by dangerous gases and high temperatures.

Working in unstable and unpredictable conditions makes it even more imperative to keep in constant touch with support units and control rooms. Our ATEX radios and accessories are built and tested for extreme reliability to give emergency teams, miners and oil or gas riggers the confidence they need to handle any situation.

Remote speaker microphones and toughened headsets designed to be worn with protective headwear ensure communications are loud and clear in high noise environments. Powerful batteries and antennas keep you working around the clock. Spring release belt clips, universal chest packs and shoulder straps give you a variety of attachment options so your radio is always there the moment you need it. ATEX accessories keep you focused on the mission so you can take action fast if a crisis arises.
